

SIGNAGE FIT FOR A QUEEN!

Needing a dependable supplier with the capability to undertake the project of supplying and installing high level advertising signage, Elstree Studios in Borehamwood turned to Signs Express Harlow to provide the solution to promote Netflix's series 2 of 'The Crown' currently being filmed.

Signs Express recommended using a flex-face system allowing the Studios to replace the interior skin whilst keeping the frame intact when any future need arises to promote a new film, series or commercial. The sign itself needed to be high enough to be seen from the neighbouring Tesco car park creating maximum impact. IPAF certificated and experienced in installations of this nature, a four man installation crew from Signs Express Harlow completed the fit.

WHAT A MELON!

Having already worked together on a previous Alibi Drinks projects, Solution Sciences commissioned Signs Express (Harlow) to print and install a full vinyl wrap creating a watermelon from a white VW transporter van.

The final result is colourful, eye-catching and definitely stands out from the crowd - "What A Melon.....what a winner!"

MEET THE TEAM

DANNY

Danny and Stuart not only have that 'creative flair' to design eye-catching signs and vehicle liveries, they also work with the practicalities to ensure the completed product works. Both guys combine expert technical knowledge with several years' experience in the sign industry so also project manage larger accounts from conception through to installation by their Signs Express colleagues.

NEW LIFE FOR HOOVER BUILDING

With the installation of full colour advertising hoardings now complete, one of London's most iconic art deco buildings takes a step nearer to becoming luxury homes in Perivale, Middlesex.

Having worked together on previous projects, Signs Express (Harlow) were commissioned by design consultancy Brand-ing to bring this stunning concept to life by printing, supplying and installing 120 linear metres of hoarding for their client IDM Properties. Full colour pictures depicting original features of the art deco building are located at specific points in the hoarding to mirror their position within the Hoover Building, so accuracy of installation was paramount in creating the intended design effect on this high profile project.

Hoardings not only keep development sites secure but also provide a great marketing opportunity to promote current offers and events keeping the public informed of new developments. A well designed printed hoarding projects a professional image for the developer as soon as they are in place, advertise the project 24/7 and have the scope to present all the key features to potential clients. Signs Express (Harlow) supply and install bespoke hoarding solutions alongside other site signage and are happy to discuss any requirements you may have.

WINNERS FOR NATIONAL AWARD

Paul and Lynda Heywood, owners of Signs Express (Harlow), picked up the award for the work their team did for Alibi soft drinks and the launch of 'What A Melon' melon water.

The pair were awarded their prize by renowned comedian and TV personality Stephen K. Amos, who hosted the awards alongside Craig Brown, Managing Director of Signs Express.
